

Creating state-of-the-art software designed for your printing and scanning management needs - "from scratch"

This is the strength of our international team of specialists. Our status as an innovative partner and integral part of the Canon Group means that we have an influential partner at our side, marking a key asset in a working environment that sets benchmarks in the areas of flexibility and equipment. Our head office in Bad Iburg is in constant communication with the company's New York, Singapore, and Tokyo offices. Can we look forward to you joining our team soon?

FULL STACK WEB DEVELOPER (m/f) –

That sounds fantastic!

Can you demonstrate sound knowledge of .NET, ASP.NET Web-API, and .NET Core? Do you have at least two years of experience working with a JavaScript framework and in creating and using RESTful web services?

Are you at the start of your career? We're always on the lookout for new talent and can't wait to receive your application!

Indeed!

Experience? Just a few months' worth.

We're a good-natured team of experts from over 35 countries across the world. In our Green Building in Bad Iburg we generate ideas together, put them into practice, and put them to the test. By the way, are you comfortable discussing hardware and software products in English?

I love it

English isn't my strong suit unfortunately.

You'll fit in great here if you:

- Like to develop software in an object oriented manner
- Possess a sound understanding of UX and visual design
- Are familiar with unit and integration tests
- Don't see issues as problems but rather as challenges
- Are not afraid to roll up your sleeves and take on the development of single page applications in Ext JS

No need to worry. We offer certified in house language courses that will allow you to quickly brush up on your English skills.

Perfect match. Is there any information available concerning the soft facts and benefits?

Unfortunately I don't think this is the right job for me :(

That's too bad, but please have a look at our other job ads in the career section of our website. Maybe you'll find what you're looking for there.

You want facts und benefits? Great. We offer a highly flexible and ultramodern working environment featuring daycare, company bonuses, continuous education, driver safety training, and much more... Convinced yet?

Definitely!

Are you on board?

All that's left to do is apply! Your contact person is Sabine Zimmer, HR Manager, Tel. +49 5403-7243-202

Apply now.
Send an email to jobs@nt-ware.com